

GREAT CHANGES COMING IN CHINA

After New Year in January Ancient Absolute Regime Will Exist Only Historically.

THRONE GRANTS DEMANDS

Was Intended That New Parliament Should Not Be Inaugurated Until 1913.

Pekin, Dec. 8.—It seems safe to announce tonight that the ancient absolute regime in China will exist only historically after the Chinese new year in January, 1911. It is stated that the throne has decided to accede to the resolution of the imperial senate praying for the immediate creation of a constitutional cabinet.

Political events in China have moved with a rapidity that appears almost revolutionary when it is considered that the provincial assemblies representing the first step toward popular government in the empire's history of thousands of years were inaugurated so recently as Oct. 14, 1909.

The first imperial senate met on Oct. 3 last. The late empress dowager had decreed that a general representative body to be known as the imperial parliament be convoked in 1915, at the end of a nine-year period of preparation.

However, the people, having had a taste of popular government, were impatient, and the senate soon after it was organized demanded the immediate convocation of a general parliament.

"The throne and grand council yielded to the extent of advancing the date for the inauguration of parliament to 1913, a decree making this effective being promulgated on Nov. 4.

It was at first thought that the senate, one-half of the membership of which was appointed by the throne, would be subservient, but early in its existence it developed a striking independence and exhibited a spirit that was almost rebellious.

When, a few weeks ago, this attitude was changed notably, the general belief was that the body had been intimidated. An increased number of troops in the streets was mistaken as an evidence of the government's determination to suppress the activities of the provincial delegates and their supporters. It appears that now that these and others who urged a still earlier meeting of parliament had no intention of abandoning their campaign, but simply altered their tactics and embarked upon a plan of private though undoubtedly forcible persuasion.

JAMES J. HILL'S VIEWS ON PROTECTIVE PRINCIPLE

New York, Dec. 8.—"The political platform of the party which represents the protective principle in this country, the doctrine announced by President Taft and accepted by the Republican leaders today, if literally acted upon, would dismantle tomorrow every custom house along the international border," said James J. Hill in a speech read tonight at the Canadian society's dinner by George D. Stewart, Mr. Hill's physician. Mr. Hill himself was unable to come from the west.

"If we are to levy only such imposts," the address continued, "as will equal the cost of production here and elsewhere—and that is now the universal slogan—then there would be free trade between the United States and Canada immediately."

In support of this statement Mr. Hill contended that there was virtually no difference in wages or cost of raw product, with few exceptions, in the two countries.

"Canada and the United States have failed to improve the opportunity plainly awaiting them," he declared. "It is possible that should these countries fall again as they have failed so many times since 1896 to listen to intelligent self-interest, combined with

House of Lords Is Tottering, and All England Awaits the Crash.

HOUSE OF PARLIAMENT HERBERT ASQUITH

The turning point of the house of lords is at hand. The older Conservatives view the march of events with anxious concern and are loudly lamenting the disappearance of the hereditary principle as the basis of the upper chamber; but, whatever may result, the second appeal to the nation arising from the struggles between the two houses is most significant and hence forth elective and selective bases will undoubtedly enter into the constitution of the house of lords. Interest in the situation has now been transferred to the constituencies.

GOV.-ELECT WILSON OPPOSES SEN. SMITH'S RE-ELECTION

Trenton, N. J., Dec. 8.—Woodrow Wilson, governor-elect of New Jersey, gave out a signed statement tonight, declaring himself for the election of James E. Martineau (Democrat) of Union county to the United States to succeed John Kean, Jr.

Dr. Wilson, in equally positive terms declares himself opposed to the election of ex-United States Senator James Smith, Jr. For some time the governor-elect has been conferring with Democratic members of the legislature and urging upon them the wisdom of electing Mr. Martineau.

Dr. Wilson refrained from making any public statement until now, hoping Mr. Smith would announce his retirement from the field. He called upon Mr. Smith at his home in Newark Tuesday night and urged him to retire, but it is understood, Mr. Smith declined to do so.

Realizing the delicacy of the situation, Dr. Wilson says he speaks as the "political spokesman and adviser of the people."

"I know that the people of the state do not desire James Smith, Jr., to be sent again to the senate. If he should be, he will not go as their representative. The only means I have of knowing whom they do desire to represent them is the vote at the recent primaries, where 46,000 Democratic voters, a majority of the whole number who voted at the primaries, declared their preference for Mr. Martineau."

"For me, that vote is conclusive. I think it should be for every member of the legislature. Absolute good faith in dealing with the people and unhesitating fidelity to every principle involved in the highest law of morality under a constitutional government."
